

FORTHCOMING SPECIAL ISSUE - International Journal of Nursing Studies IMPROVING THE CARE OF THE OLDER PERSON

(GUEST EDITED BY JAN HAMERS, MAASTRICHT UNIVERSITY & ELIZABETH CAPEZUTI, NEW YORK UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF NURSING)

The International Journal of Nursing Studies journal will be publishing a Special Issue focusing on the care of the older person.

Trends in population aging, especially among the world's developed nations, are demonstrating unprecedented growth which will have profound social, economic, and health implications in the near future. Nurses will be critical assets in the process of developing the health infrastructure to cope with the needs of an ageing society and the resulting complex clinical challenges. Such challenges will include the organisation of care and the management of multiple chronic health problems.

With the ultimate aim of improving the quality of care of older persons, research in nursing and related fields is urgently needed.

The International Journal of Nursing Studies is currently inviting papers which present the findings of studies evaluating interventions and innovations, descriptive studies using either or both quantitative and qualitative approaches, as well as systematic reviews investigating the state of the science in discrete areas of elder care in any setting. For further information – visit www.journalofnursingstudies.com

We would like to invite authors to submit their full manuscripts for consideration to the International Journal of Nursing Studies at <http://ees.elsevier.com/ijns> - Submit under 'Special Issue – Older Person Nursing'

by 30 June 2012

The International Journal of Nursing Studies (IJNS) provides a forum for original research and scholarship about health care delivery, organisation, management, workforce, policy and research methods relevant to nursing, midwifery and other health related professions. The IJNS aims to support evidence informed policy and practice by publishing research, systematic and other scholarly reviews, critical discussion, and commentary of the highest standard.

- A truly global readership
- Highly efficient editorial processes: average time from submission to first decision of 4 weeks
- Rapid initial screening for suitability and editorial interest
- Excellent peer reviewers drawn from a range of health service research disciplines
- Early online publication as Article in Press - fully citable by your peers - on average 8 weeks after acceptance.

No.1 nursing journal

www.journalofnursingstudies.com