Salutation:

I am writing to request permission to use material from Publication Title. I would like permission to use or adapt Table X, which appears on page XXX of your publication, in an article that will appear in an upcoming issue of AORN Publication Title. I am seeking the right to use Table X in both print and electronic formats and in any future re-publication of the article. I have attached a copy of this table.

I look forward to hearing from you. If you prefer to send your response by fax, my fax number is (XXX) XXX-XXXX.

Sincerely,

AORN PUBLICATIONS
OBTAINING PERMISSION TO USE OR ADAPT PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED MATERIAL

AORN strongly encourages the use of original artwork and tables in your manuscript. Any previously published material will be evaluated by the editor for its importance to the overall comprehension of the manuscript. If you feel it is necessary to include previously published material (eg, graphs, tables, photographs, drawings) in your paper, you need to write the holder of the copyright (ie, the publisher) for permission to use the material.

Write a business letter that states where you intend to publish your paper (be optimistic that your target journal will accept your paper). Clearly describe the material you are asking permission to use (eg, table/figure number ___ from page number ___ of the article entitled "...” authored by XYZ in name of journal on date). Permissions must grant electronic rights as well as print rights. Specific language is included in the sample letter on the reverse side of this document.

Most publishers are happy to give permission. You may receive your original letter with a permission notice stamped on the bottom. Save these letters, and send copies with your manuscript when you submit it. Even if you are not certain that you will use the previously published material, write to request the permission.
