

Journal of Materials Processing Technology – Conference policy

The JMPT no longer publishes conference proceedings.

This decision has been taken in recognition that conference organisers have the difficult task of balancing the need to cover their costs against the quality of the papers they accept, that conference papers are usually shorter than full journal papers, that many conference papers are works in progress where journal papers should describe a significant contribution to knowledge, and that in many cases, conference papers give a first opportunity for new researchers to present their work for critical evaluation. We are confident that all readers of the journal will support this decision in the interest of ensuring that the journal only publishes papers of the very highest standard
