Examples of Titles

Therapeutic exercise is beneficial in physiotherapy practice: a summary of systematic reviews 2002-2005

Strengthening interventions increase strength and improve activity after stroke: a systematic review

No model of clinical education for undergraduate physiotherapists is superior to another: a systematic review

Six sessions of manual therapy increase knee flexion and improve activity in people with anterior knee pain: a randomised trial

Twelve weeks of nightly stretch does not reduce thumb web-space contractures in people with a neurological condition: a randomised trial

The Mapleson C circuit clears more secretions than the Laerdal circuit during manual hyperinflation in mechanically-ventilated patients: a randomized cross-over trial

Manual vibration increases expiratory flow rate via increased intrapleural pressure in healthy adults: an experimental study

Faulty proprioceptive information disrupts motor imagery: an experimental study

Active involvement and long-term goals influence long-term adherence to behavioural graded activity in people with osteoarthritis: a qualitative study

Quantity of early upright mobilisation performed following upper abdominal surgery is low: an observational study

Position of undergraduate students’ thumbs during mobilisation is poor: an observational study

Compliance with the guidelines for acute ankle sprain for physiotherapists is moderate in the Netherlands: an observational study